

A Powerful New 2010 Fall Panel Series – Two Locations
Enneagram Subtypes in Daily Life and Relationships

This monthly panel series will explore the three subtype energies of each type - self-preservation, social, and one-to-one/sexual - and how each of the nine types expresses these instinctual energies in everyday life. Through panels and exercises, these workshops will provide the opportunity for you to better understand and explore your subtype including how you can work with this instinctual energy. We will also address how differences in subtypes can powerfully impact your relationships. Participants will observe why people of the same type can seem so different.
